Department Of Electronics And Communication Engineering

THE COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS LAB

The Communication Systems Laboratory is intended for performing fundamental experiments related to the Systems for reliable and efficient communication of information and also have specialized facilities for conducting communication experiments related to mini projects and major projects.

The COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS Laboratory is enriched with hardware equipment to carry out analog, digital and wireless communication experiments. This Lab supports the students with a practical knowledge to enhance their understanding of analog and digital communication systems.

The laboratory is adequately equipped with the latest suit of spectrum analyzers, GSM/GPS trainer kits, RFID trainer kit, CDMA Mobile Communication trainer kit, Advanced Digital Communication trainer kits and Wireless Communication Analyzer which is upgraded through MODROB scheme of AICTE to serve the need of current research trends.
